Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

DETAILED ACTION

1. The notice of non-responsive amendment filed 3 February 2003 (Paper No. 14) has been withdrawn in view of applicant's resubmission of preliminary amendment filed 30 November 2000 (Paper No. 8) which was previously timely filed but not present in the application previously. No extension fee is necessary.

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election without traverse of Group I, claims 13-17 and 20-21, in Paper No. 13 is acknowledged.

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

1. Claims 13-17 and 20-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. Written description rejection.

Claims 13-17 and 20-21 encompass a large genus of variants without functional limitation. However, the specification only discloses working example of a specific species of substituted staphylokinase. University of California v. Eli Lilly and Co.

(CAFC) 43 USPQ2d 1398 held that a generic claim to human or mammalian when only the rat protein sequence was disclosed did not have written description in the specification. Thus, the disclosure does not have written description for the large genus of variants of staphylokinase. One skilled in the art cannot envision the sequence of the other variants of the staphylokinase. Furthermore, the variants are not limited by functional claim limitation.

2. No claims are allowed.
